Determined to Veto Measure After Conference With His Advisors

WASHINGTON, May 13.—(UP)—Twenty-five thousand telegrams, mostly imploring President Roosevelt to sign the Patman bonus bill, piled up at the White House today.

Mr. Roosevelt, back from weekend conferences with his congressional leaders in the seclusion of a fishing camp, was represented as unswerved in his determination to veto the $2,200,000,000 inflationary measure.

In addition to the telegrams, 3,000 letters on the bonus were received at the White House.

Attaches said the communications averaged about eight to one in favor of the Patman bill.

Aside from the stacks of messages at the White House, it was estimated senators had received upwards of 100,000 telegrams since Father Charles E. Coughlin started a drive a week ago to bring pressure on congress to override a veto.

The messages appeared to be having little effect, however. Patmanites still appeared to be three or four votes short of the needed two-thirds majority in the senate. Reluctantly, they gave increasing attention to the possibility of bringing the bonus forward in another form which might command larger support.

Veto Is Certain

Despite the great mass pressure brought to bear on the White House by extensively organized lobbies, and at the risk of political animosity of veterans organizations and Father Charles E. Coughlin's National Union for Social Justice, the chief executive was still determined to veto the Patman inflationary bonus bill.

Moreover, President Roosevelt was represented as weary of congressional dilly-dallying and inconsistent upon enactment of the New Deal legislative program at this session.

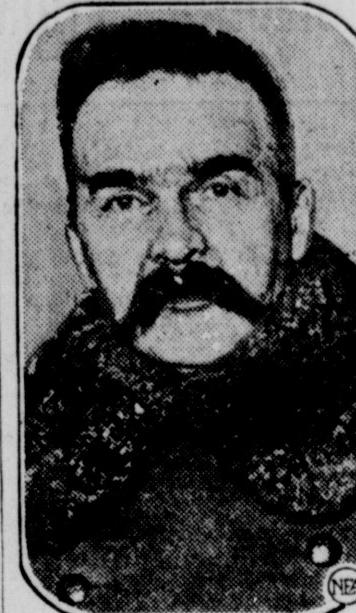

His conferees were understood to have detected no indication of a willingness to compromise.

Father Coughlin turned his guns directly upon the White House last night. Speaking to the chief executive with his radio audience listening, the priest urged Mr. Roosevelt to sign the bonus bill, representing that "the millions who supported you" wanted him to sign, whereas those against the bill "seek to wedge you into a fatal trap."

HERO DIES

Death Calls Polish Hero Late Sunday

Jos. Pilsudski Dies From Cancer; Wife Is Seized With Heart Attack

(Copyright, 1935, by United Press)

WARSAW, Poland, May 13.—(UP)—Poland, in deep mourning over the death of its national hero, Marshal Josef Pilsudski, was further shocked today when his grief-stricken widow was seized with a heart attack. Physicians feared her condition was serious.

The nation was bowed in grief. Markets and the universities were closed. Factories shut down at noon.

Pilsudski's body will lie in state at Belvedere Palace tomorrow and the people will file by to pay him tribute.

The mourning extended to other nations. Although Pilsudski, actually dictator, held no other government position than minister of war and inspector-general of the army, his death was treated as though he had been a president or ruler, and flags were half-masted both in France and Germany.

Plan Memorial

Poles were asked by the government today to build their young republic into a mighty nation as a fitting memorial to Pilsudski, called the greatest of all national heroes, who died last night. The nation was advised of his death in an official communiqué early today and the country, including those of political factions who had fought him bitterly in life, mourned him sincerely.

He had dedicated himself to the cause of Polish freedom in boyhood, had gone to prison under

UNITED STATES SILVER POLICY HIT IN REPORT

BASLE, Switzerland, May 13.—(UPI)—The annual report of the Bank for International Settlement, signed by Leon Frasier of New York, today condemned the United States silver policy.

The bank's report discussed the "practical application" of the American policy of increasing the domestic price of newly mined domestic silver, thereby increasing the world price.

It said the policy had a bad effect on the currencies of silver standard countries and the general currency exchanges but that it might cause a "fundamental" change in the international position of silver.

The bank's report said:

"This policy has resulted in the rapid advance of the price of silver with an immediate injurious effect on the currencies of silver standard countries.

"It has had disturbing repercussions in the general exchange position.

"Had there been any genuine demand for silver internationally as for gold, there would have been no need for adoption of special action by the United States to help silver."

The report concluded with the statement that "there is no evidence to justify the conclusion that such a policy will produce a fundamental change in the monetary position of silver, as considered from an international viewpoint."

CLAIMS EDUCATORS UPHOLD FREE LOVE

CHICAGO, May 13.—(UP)—Charles R. Walgreen charged before a legislative investigating committee today that the practice of free love is upheld by certain professors in University of Chicago classrooms.

When asked by a student what he thought of free love a professor was quoted by Walgreen as replying:

"I believe in free love for myself."

Walgreen, who has built up a chain of 500 drug stores, was called as the first witness before a committee charged with investigating subversive teachings in Illinois educational institutions.

ADMINISTRATION FORCES IN SENATE LAUNCH ATTACK ON SENATOR HUEY P. LONG TODAY

WASHINGTON, May 13.—(UP)—Sen. Josiah W. Bailey, D., N. C., led administration forces today in a sweeping attack on Sen. Huey P. Long.

Bailey launched his assault as the Senate undertook consideration of a resolution offered by Long for investigation of Postmaster General James A. Farley.

Long, Bailey charged, sought "to cast suspicion upon the government," to asperse the character and compromise the integrity of President Roosevelt."

Long himself opened the firework with a renewal of his charges against Farley and a threat to "read the record" of anyone who attacked him.

Large crowds thronged to the Senate galleries, attracted by the promise of fiery debate.

Bailey attacked Long's "share-the-wealth" program. He declared his promise could not be fulfilled.

He referred to Long's autobiography, "Every Man a King," and said two more volumes were in preparation, "the first to be known as 'every man a kingfish' and the second, 'every man a sucker.'"

"He (Long) is the only accuser," Bailey said, "and he spreads his accusations from day to day."

He said the senate postoffice committee received no names of witnesses to confirm Long's charges against Farley and no evidence to support them.

"That is unsound. That is unthinkable radicalism."

COMMUNITY COUNCIL NAMED BY CHAIRMAN ELLIS DIEHL; HOLDS FIRST MEET FRIDAY

FLOWER planting upon vacant lots as part of a city-wide program of beautification will receive the immediate attention of the Community Council, organized under auspices of the Chamber of Commerce to coordinate civic activities, it was announced today by Ellis Diehl, chairman of the council.

Definite plans for the beautification will be made, Diehl said, at a meeting of the Council to be held Friday noon, when details of the program and methods will be outlined by the group, which comprises presidents of the city's civic organizations.

Many thousands of San Diego Exposition visitors will be passing through Santa Ana during the summer months, and every effort will be made to present the greatest civic beauty, especially on all main thoroughfares, in order to attract new residents, it was said.

Members of the Community Council named today, included the following: Ellis Diehl, Chamber of Commerce, chairman; Loren Moore, Kiwanis club; K. E. Morrison, Lions club; Ed Hall, Breakfast club; Lorraine French, Business and Professional Women's club; Mrs. Fred C. Rowland, Ebenezer club; Lawrence Mitchell, 20-30 club, and Carson Smith, Y. M. C. Fullerton Man's Burns Prove Fatal

Total Deaths for Year in Auto Accidents Mount to Twenty-two

ONE MAN died early today from burns received when the automobile in which he was riding caught fire following a collision with a truck; another was injured in the same accident; two people were hurt when their cars overturned, and another when he went to sleep at the wheel and his car crashed into a sign post in front of the County Hospital, according to a weekly traffic accident report on file.

Today's traffic death brings the total for the year to date to 22, tying last year's record for the same period.

Harold Rubidoux, 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Rubidoux, of the Bastanchury ranch, Fullerton, died at the county hospital at 1 a. m. today, from burns received at 8:30 last night when the car in which he was riding with Victor Hernandez, 34, of 215 East Ash street, Fullerton, collided with a parked truck.

The accident happened in front of 1140 North Lemon street, Anaheim, and the light coupe in which the men were riding immediately burst into flame, trapping Rubidoux.

Hernandez, owner and driver of the car, received a possible skull fracture and arm fracture and cuts about the face.

Both injured persons were taken to the county hospital where Rubidoux expired a few hours later. The body is at the McAulay and Suters mortuary in Fullerton pending an inquest by Coroner Earl Abbey.

Julio Lopez, 46, was being treated at the Orange County hospital today for a sprained back and possible internal injuries received Sunday evening at 5:30 in Huntington Beach when his car overturned.

Ivan Adams of 1030 South Main street, Santa Ana, was given first aid at the county hospital for cuts about the face received when his car struck a signpost at entrance to Santa Ana Boulevard at the county hospital about 5 o'clock Sunday morning. The accident happened when Adams fell asleep.

Agree On Plans

The committee already had agreed on nine tax plans which would raise approximately $24,000,000 more than is needed to balance the state budget. Another $20,000,000 would be required for unemployment relief, according to the state will need for relief purposes during the next two years, the committee declined to go ahead with recommendations for raising new revenue until it has determined more detail the amount of money the state will need for relief.

Despite Governor Merriam's assurance that $44,000,000 would meet federal demands for relief purposes during the next two years, the committee declined to go ahead with recommendations for raising new revenue until it has determined more detail the amount of money the state will need for relief.

at the wheel, he told police. Mrs. Ida Kerr received treatment at the Santa Ana Valley Hospital Sunday morning for minor injuries received in a traffic accident and was removed to her home in Los Angeles Sunday afternoon.

Anna C. Simpson of 140 Birch street received painful cuts Saturday evening at Fourth and Main streets when she was knocked to the pavement by a car driven by Marion C. Valley of 926 Hickory street, Santa Ana.

Mrs. Henry Silk, of 506 North Arden drive, Beverly Hills, sustained a broken arm and minor cuts and bruises in a spectacular accident near Corona Del Mar Saturday, when her car skidded on a turn in the Coast highway, turning over several times.

The car, which was badly wrecked, rolled for more than 100 feet, before landing right side up at the side of the road. Mrs. Silk was taken to the Newport Beach emergency hospital for treatment, and later sent to her home. Her car narrowly missed that driven by Herbert Truxax, Long Beach, as it careened down the highway.

S A. Men Attend District Meeting Of Rotary Clubs

Among those from Santa Ana attending the second district of Rotary Club conference, being held today at Santa Monica, was W. A. Taylor, who will address the conference tomorrow on the subject of "Safety in Driving," and the Rev. O. Scott McFarland, president of the local club, who opened this morning's session of the conference, by offering the prayer.

Also attending from here are Stanley E. Goode, president-elect of the local club; E. B. Sharpley, chairman of the committee to make arrangements for the international convention of Rotary clubs to be held soon in Mexico City; G. J. Gilbert, vice president-elect of the local club; Mac Robbins, Fred Merker, Mayor Fred C. Rowland, Carl Young and C. J. Klatt.

May Celebration Held by Students Of Mission City

SAN JUAN CAPISTRANO, May 13.—A May Day celebration of the Capistrano grammar school Friday afternoon.

Held on the grounds of the high school, a May pole of gay streamers and flowers was the center of the activity.

Many rabbits and other pets of the youngsters were decorated by them for the parade that was the feature of the afternoon. One hundred children and parents attended.

They Sail for Farming in Alaska

First contingent of 500 Federal transient workmen sail from San Francisco on the North Star, en route to Matanuska Valley, Alaska, where they will help trees, construct roads and build homes for Uncle Sam's greatest rehabilitation program. By fall 300 Midwest families—driven from their homes by the drought—will be established on 40-acre farm tracts under a Government loan.

ROOSEVELT IS DETERMINED TO VETO MEASURE DEATH CALLS POLISH HERO LATE SUNDAY

telegrams continued to pour into the White House, urging favorable action on the Patman bill. The Veterans of Foreign Wars frankly seek to inspire 1,000,000 telegrams to the president.

At his week-end conference with Vice President John N. Garner, Senate Majority Leader Joseph T. Robinson, House Speaker Joseph Byrnes, Senate Finance Committee Chairman Pat Harrison and Postmaster General James A. Farley, Mr. Roosevelt was understood to have ordered the New Deal legislative program speeded.

Sponsors of the Patman bill, which calls for issuance of $2,500,000 in greenbacks to pay the bonus, continued to delay its delivery to the White House, hoping mass pressure would force a reversal of the president's position.

Apparently failing on that score, they also were discouraged in their efforts to find the four more senate votes necessary to override a veto. It was not expected that the bill could be held back beyond the middle of the week.

Mr. Roosevelt's position was made the more difficult by the moral support given to the Patman advocates by chairmen of the federal reserve board. Both minimized the inflationary potentialities of the bill.

Dies On Sunday

He died, at 3:35 p. m. yesterday, on the ninth anniversary of the coup of May, 1926, when he emerged from retirement to lead his political supporters in a campaign to save the country from what he thought would be anarchy threatened by parliamentary bickerings.

There was no indication that the republic, the monument which Pilсудski built for himself, would not continue as he dreamed it.

Within a few hours of his death, his two posts in the government were filled—the inspector general of the army his old friend and collaborator Gen. Edward Rydz-Smigly, the ministry of war by Gen. Zbigniew Kasprzycki, who had served him as vice minister.

program we've approved. That will leave us some $20,000,000 or $25,000,000 for unemployment relief. Then we can come back next February and see what we need for another year. By then, we would know how these new tax plans will work.

"If conditions continue picking up, how do we know we'll need $44,000,000?"

Senator Walter H. Duval, Santa Paula, said it would be "pretty hard to map out a two-year program during this period of turmoil."

"It looks like we are going to have a special session next year anyway," he said.

Assemblyman Charles A. Hunt, Los Angeles, objected to the committee sending out an uncompleted program.

"What assurance do we have that we would go a special session next year rather than having the state board of control levy an ad valorem tax after we get away from here?" he asked.

A majority of the steering committee's members objected strenuously to an ad valorem, despite their action in voting for a state tax on automobiles, which many legislators said was "nothing but an ad valorem limited to one specific kind of property."

Members may decide tomorrow whether to extend their recommended program to include $44,000,000 for relief, or to plan only for this year's need, and meet again next year. They also must agree on a policy concerning institutional improvements. Some favor a bond issue to provide for enlarging state hospitals.

Paul B. TWO KILLED IN MIMIC BATTLE OFF HONOLULU

Twenty-four destroyers preceded the main fleet, steaming 15 knots, all lights out, veering to right and left as the eyes of the man-of-war in search of 24 "enemy" black submarines cruising in the waters to harass approaching ships.

There was a great crash that was heard in Honolulu as the Lexington in pitch darkness, knifed its way into the Seward's starboard fantail.

Gunner's Mate Chadwick, who was killed, was one of the watch below, whose men were sleeping at the stern of the ship. He and four others aboard the Seward were pinned by a torpedo which was thrown from its rack. Still others, above, were thrown into the sea as they slept, and woke up swimming. They were rescued by the Seward. The men injured on the Seward were F. H. Stefan, cook; John MacDonald, torpedoman; J. N. Beard, water-tender, and T. W. Kenney, fireman.

The news of the destroyer collision was followed by the announcement of Lieut. Wyatt's death in his plane's plunge.

A force of planes took off from the long, broad deck of the aircraft carrier Saratoga Saturday. Wyatt's Boeing fighter shot out from the carrier's deck, started to rise, struck the "slip stream" of air from a preceding plane, and nose dived into the sea. The destroyer MacLeish searched vainly for plane and body until dark.

The apparent success of the great American battle fleet at Pearl Harbor seemed matched by that of 48 navy seaplane which took off last week for Midway Island, 1,200 miles out from Hawaii. These ships, it was announced yesterday, reached their destination successfully. They landed, on the way to Midway Island, at the half way mark of French Frigate Shoals.

Chiseling labor contractors who have been exploiting Mexican laborers of Orange county will be prosecuted and eliminated, it was declared today by Lucas Lucio, Mexican consular representative here, following a conference today in Los Angeles with Thomas A. Baker, state labor commissioner.

All unlicensed contractors will be driven from the field, Baker assured Lucio, and all labor contracting must be carried on in conformity with state laws. Immediate action was promised when complaints are filed with the state labor office, Baker assured the Orange county representative.

Lucio is now investigating several complaints in cases where it is reported unlicensed contractors have taken too large a commission and also where irresponsible contractors have collected money and absconded with it leaving the laborers unpaid.

The divorce party went into Judge Moran's courtroom at 8:41 a.m., and four minutes later the Crists emerged after having given their testimony.

As soon as the decree was signed, the corridors were cleared to permit the Hutton entourage to pass through the hallway and back to their automobile.

The party then drove back to Thatcher's home.

None of the party would divulge anything of what had transpired behind the courtroom doors.

Miss Hutton wore a black-and-white silk print dress, a light black silk coat, banded at the collar with a narrow strip of white fur. Her hat was a white sailor, perched trimly on her brown hair.

Despite her injuries, Mrs. Knight, who was born and raised in Santa Ana and has a wide circle of friends here, remained conscious after the accident, and directed rescuers regarding hospital arrangements and notification of relatives.

Husband Fails To Press Complaint; Wife Gets Decree

Today's scheduled court battle between Mrs. Hannah Moosman, of Fullerton, and her husband, James H. Moosman, of Montebello, over the issue of which should be granted a divorce, was turned at the last minute into an amicable adjustment of the question, the divorce being granted to Mrs. Moosman.

Moosman withdrew from the courtroom and did not contest the case. It was reported that conferences between their attorneys had effected a settlement out of court. Mrs. Moosman, who charged her husband with cruelty, had sued for $60 per month support, and her court costs.

Moosman bad filed a cross-complaint, charging desertion.

Recently Mrs. Moosman prosecuted a criminal charge of non-support of minor children against Moosman but at a trial before Judge James L. Allen, who also heard the case today, Moosman was acquitted.

The couple have a son, 20, and a daughter, 18.

MEXICAN LABOR PROFITEERS TO BE ELIMINATED

SEWELLS LEAVE FOR INSURANCE MEETING

James H. Sewell, prominent Santa Ana life insurance man and agency director for the state of California for the Jefferson Standard Life Insurance company, of Greensboro, N. C., will leave here late today, with Mrs. Sewell, to attend the annual $150,000 club convention of the company.

George DeRouliac, district manager for Orange county for the company is expected to leave Saturday to attend the convention. The convention, which will be held the latter part of May, will entertain only agents throughout the United States who have made exceptional records in the selling of life insurance during the past month.

Mr. and Mrs. Sewell will go by train from here to Detroit, where they will purchase a new automobile and then drive to North Carolina.

FIVE AND TEN HEIRESS GETS DIVORCE TODAY

Chiseling labor contractors who have been exploiting Mexican laborers of Orange county will be prosecuted and eliminated, it was declared today by Lucas Lucio, Mexican consular representative here, following a conference today in Los Angeles with Thomas A. Baker, state labor commissioner.

Lucio is now investigating several complaints in cases where it is reported unlicensed contractors have taken too large a commission and also where irresponsible contractors have collected money and absconded with it leaving the laborers unpaid.

The question was put on the program for the next meeting of the board of directors of the chamber, and will be brought up as a discussion topic at the next general meeting of the group.

Each of the officials present was introduced by Baker, and gave short talks. Joe Backs, county clerk, told briefly of the work of his office, and invited inspection at any time. Backs was followed on the program by James Sleeper, county assessor, who spoke on the question of the ad valorem tax now before the assembly. He urged that support be given those assemblymen and state senators opposing the measure.

Supervisor Jerome, after outlining the background and ideals of the chamber, and telling briefly of the work of the board of supervisors, spoke concerning trends of government today. He contended that government growth was away from that of local government toward a highly centralized, or dictatorship form of government, and urged that every means be employed to keep the reins of government in the hands of local agencies.

"It is the most serious problem," he said, "that has confronted the country in 150 years."

He was supported in his argument and stand by LeRoy Lyons, county supervisor, and Ray Adkinson, county superintendent of schools, each of whom urged the maintenance of local government. Adkinson outlined the value of the public schools, primarily in teaching democracy as opposed to a dictatorship, toward which he said the trend was.

Sheriff Logan Jackson also spoke, warning against the growth of communism, and praising the friendly and progressive spirit of Santa Ana and Orange county. Nat Neff, county engineer, urged support for the county planning commission, and the attempt to establish a county-wide zoning system. District Attorney S. B. Kauffman urged the consideration of debatable questions by public bodies, and the formation of public opinion in a constructive manner on such questions.

He was supported in his argument and stand by LeRoy Lyons, county supervisor, and Ray Adkinson, county superintendent of schools, each of whom urged the maintenance of local government. Adkinson outlined the value of the public schools, primarily in teaching democracy as opposed to a dictatorship, toward which he said the trend was.

Sheriff Logan Jackson also spoke, warning against the growth of communism, and praising the friendly and progressive spirit of Santa Ana and Orange county. Nat Neff, county engineer, urged support for the county planning commission, and the attempt to establish a county-wide zoning system. District Attorney S. B. Kauffman urged the consideration of debatable questions by public bodies, and the formation of public opinion in a constructive manner on such questions.

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG - News Behind the News -

WASHINGTON

By Paul Mallen

RUSH-

Traffic is jamming up around President Roosevelt's four billion dollar pap barrel. The place has been over-run lately with governors and mayors or their special representatives. The boys are crowding in from far and near, trying to arrange quietly for their swig of that four billion. All are promoting pet projects back home.

The crowding has become so close that the mayors have actually established Washington headquarters. The official conference of mayors is opening up offices in an old brownstone front edifice, half a block from the White House. Only one lobbying outfit is nearer to the executive mansion, and that is the women's peace organization. Of course, the mayors insist they are not lobbying. In a sense, that is true. There is no doubt that the relief program requires states and cities to have representatives on the job here to look out for their interests. Their relations with the federal government have become so extensive that senators and congressmen can no longer handle the job effectively.

SPREAD-

An old ex-tariff lobbyist stood before the new mayors' lobby building recently and pondered how times have changed. In the old days, a lobbyist was any hired man who wore a red necktie and diamond scarf pin while seeking to influence the processes of government. This gently has passed away.

In their places have grown up groups which seem to be endlessly spreading. A few years ago, the foremost groups with Washington lobbyists headquarters were those of the veterans, manufacturers, labor, etc. The new deal has developed such new high-powered publicity promoting outfits as the committee for the nation, led by Wall Street money agitators; the union for social justice, led by a Detroit priest; the American Liberty League, and now the conference of mayors.

TIP-

Just for the information of mayors, they need not weep about the statements being put out by the new dealers (Hopkins, et al), implying that cities are not going to get much money unless their credit is good and they can borrow it from the government.

The situation on that is that Mr. Hopkins wisely wants to give away just as little money as possible. He would rather lend it. However, the financial situation of most of the cities is no secret. If their credit range should ever be made the strict test, they would never get any money. But Hopkins must give them the money because the relief problem is largely in their hands.

Also, many cities loom larger than states in the fiscal and public works fields. For instance, the ten largest fiscal units of government are: The Federal government, five big cities, and four states, ranking in that order. New York City spends more for its police than 35 states do for their entire government.

Hopkins merely wants to make the cities borrow wherever possible before the free federal money starts to flow.

BONUS-

The overlooked fact behind the existing bonus controversy is that it is not primarily a bonus controversy.

What has happened is that the inflationists in Congress stole the bonus issue to promote their money ideas.

Congressman Patman, author of the prevailing bill, has always been a bonvist, but primarily he is an inflationist. He lives, breathes, issue. The character of the men who walks and talks the easy money put his bill over in the Senate shows the distinction even more clearly. Every senatorial page boy knows that Senator Thomas never ceases to let his money ideas guide all his actions. And no one ever saw Huey Long fulminating about the soldiers before.

It was perfect inflationist strategy. By swiping the bonus issue and making it their own, they managed to develop their maximum possible support in Congress for their real issue.

COURT-CURBING-

Talk has developed in Congress lately about changing the powers of the Supreme Court. It is only talk.

What started it, of course, was the 5 to 4 decision outlawing the railroad pension system. Congressman Ramsay of West Virginia, who is a very good lawyer, has formally proposed a constitutional amendment in the house. It would prevent inferior courts from invalidating acts of Congress and permit the Supreme Court such power only by a two-thirds vote.

Congressman Lewis of Maryland has dug up an old unpassed Senate bill of 1923 which, would require a vote of 7 to 2 for invalidation of congressional laws.

The interesting part of Borah's old proposal is that it assumed Congress could change court procedure without a constitutional amendment. The only thing the Constitution says on the subject is that the Supreme Court shall have appellate jurisdiction (Article 3, Section 2, Paragraph 2) over acts of Congress.

This talk always arises when the court invalidates a popular congressional act. Nothing will be done about it now.

NOTES-

Labor leaders are willing to confess off the record that they see no way to write a railroad pension act setting around the Supreme Court decision. Nothing will be done about it now.

Five functioning justices of the Supreme Court are over 70, but other employees are required to resign when they reach that age.

DEAD

Betting is 5 to 1 there will be no extra session of the New York legislature to reapportion political districts—despite reports that men have destroyed women's historic place in the home by inventing machines to do her housework, thus causing her to seek new friends outside. So they blame even women's new freedom on men.

There may be a tip to husbands not to buy housework saving devices.

TIP-OFF

The congressman who gets the most mileage is Representative Walgreen of Everett, Washington. He lives farthest away. The one who gets the least is Representative Smith of Alexandria, Va., who lives across the river from the capital.

DRAFT

New York Republicans haven't enjoyed such a hearty laugh in years as they did when Hamilton Fish cracked his hat into the Presidential ring. They were particularly delighted by his insistence that the West must demand him before he is willing to heed duty's call. Comment runs that Ham will never catch cold from any political draft that's likely to blow his way.

STORES NOW OFFER MATTRESS TRADE-IN

In line with the better housing idea of bringing the home and furnishings up to date, Chandler's and Dickey's furniture stores, in cooperation with Robert brothers of Los Angeles, have extended the automobile merchandising idea of turning in old models on new to include bedding equipment—just as other manufacturers have done on gas ranges, electric refrigerators, etc.

This is purely a big bank complaint. The higher the assessment based on total deposits the more they have to kick in proportionately. The little institutions would naturally be in favor of that—so the A. B. A. certainly isn't expressing their viewpoint.

PROXY

The section of Title II which New York is especially anxious to have amended is Mariner Eccles' proposal that the Federal Reserve Board alone shall have absolute control over open market operations—which means the purchase and sale of government securities by the twelve Federal Reserve banks. This demotes the government of the regional banks to the status of mere "advisors."

It's true that the regional banks—including the once mighty New York bank—do as Washington tells them without any back talk now, so it wouldn't make much difference in current practice. But financial leaders hate the idea of perpetuating that condition by law.

It remains to be seen whether New York's aggressiveness by proxy gets results. Objective observers doubt it.

ADVANTAGE

New York Republican circles are buzzing with talk of Owen J. Roberts as they haven't buzzed for years. The suggestion that he might be a suitable Presidential candidate next year has drawn an amazingly warm response from men who count behind the scenes.

No one of importance is going to spill the beans by declaring he is shrewd appraisers of political values figure he has two important factors in his favor. One is his double-edged appeal. His consistent liberalism in Supreme Court decisions (up to the rail pension case) would be a selling point with Republicans who fear a throwback to right-wing domination of the party. At the same time his forceful opinion on the pension law is reassuring to business and financial interests.

His second advantage is the fact that he is a member of the Supreme Court and therefore cannot be smoked out on any issue except those which come before the court. Republican strategists are convinced that the less they commit themselves the better their chances for a comeback and Mr. Roberts is protected against having to take positions.

Moreover that protection will last right up to the moment he is drafted—if he is. His only political drawback is that he comes from Pennsylvania. And perhaps that would be such a handicap in G. O. P. eyes since the Guffey-Earle triumph put the Keystone State in the doubtful class.

MAMIE H. SHOW IS CALLED BY DEATH

ANAHEIM, May 13.—Mamie H. Show, 40, a native of Georgia but a resident of Southern California for the past 16 years and for the past 12 years residing at 125 East Wilhelmina street, Anaheim, passed away early this morning at her home after an extended illness.

She is survived by her husband,

James W. Show; two daughters, Alma Ruth and Mary Louise, both at home; her mother, Mrs. H. A. Hodges of Pomona; four sisters, Mrs. C. H. Summers, in Florida, Mrs. C. M. Webster of Walnut Park, C. P. Smith of Los Angeles and Miss Lois Hodges of Pomona; four brothers, Denver Hodges, of Artesia, Willard Hodges of Lynnwood, and Warren and Henry Hodges of Anaheim.

But Lew's friends say nothing doing. He has bigger game in view—key part in the future reconstruction of a Democratic party.

The only thing the Constitution says on the subject is that the Supreme Court shall have appellate jurisdiction (Article 3, Section 2, Paragraph 2) over acts of Congress.

This talk always arises when the court invalidates a popular congressional act. Nothing will be done about it now.

RUSSIAN FILM BANNED; PLAY CENSORED AT LAGUNA AFTER PROTESTS FROM LEGIONNAIRES

Because of its alleged communistic tendencies, the motion picture, "Fragments Of An Empire," shown Friday night at the Little Art Theater in Laguna Beach in connection with the stage play "Waiting for Lefty," was banned from the screen Saturday night by police officials, and the play was shown in a deleted form, following protests concerning its language.

The play, which had been advertised as "exciting, raw drama," called forth many protests from first night audiences, and American Legion officials condemned the showing of the Russian film, which they claimed was pure propaganda.

Police ordered the producers of the drama to strike out objectionable lines, and the picture was taken from the program in its entirety. The New Theater League produced the play, with a professional cast from Hollywood. Police intervention followed threats

THIRD, FOURTH GRADE SCHOOL WORK SHOWN

An exhibit of Third and Fourth grade school work selected from the Santa Ana schools, has been on display in windows of SERA headquarters at Second and Broadway for several days.

The fourth grade exhibit, arranged by Miss Hazel McFarland, of Franklin school, deals with California, as its theme.

The Third grade exhibit, arranged by Mrs. Evelyn Blanding, of Wilson school, is a study unit of Holland, connected with Third grade social studies. It includes windmills made by the students, from fruit baskets and cheese box; a churn made out of a nail keg; drawings of Holland scenes; tiles made from clay and painted in the tulip motif; a book of stories on Holland.

"All of these subjects," explained Mrs. Blanding, "are correlated with our studies. They give the children a better idea of how the children live in other countries, and a more sympathetic appreciation of other peoples."

Children Playing With Fire Cause Damage to House

When youngsters play with matches, anything may happen, and such a cause, it was reported today, resulted in a run by the fire department yesterday noon to the home of Otto Karsnetz, 938 West Chestnut street.

The fire started in a clothes closet, according to fire department reports. It was extinguished with a $30 loss to the building, besides damage to clothing and furnishings the reports stated.

Chevrolet Truck Caravan To Be Here Tomorrow

An extensive caravan of modern trucks, the 1935 Chevrolet, will arrive in this city tomorrow and be displayed for local commercial car operators at H. J. MacMullen's, Chevrolet dealer, from 11:30 a. m. to 1 p. m.

The caravan of 18 different units include a fire truck, dump units, panel deliveries, the newly introduced suburban carryall, the smart sedan delivery, a school bus, six wheel units for heavy duty, and various others.

"We hope that this representative group of Chevrolet trucks and special bodies will demonstrate to business men that Chevrolet is not only the world's lowest priced truck, but that we have a unit for every need," said J. W. McCain, manager.

The 1935 Chevrolet truck is built on three different wheel base lengths, 112 inches, 131 inches, and 187 inches. All are powered by the 68 horsepower Chevrolet truck engine, still further refined to give passenger-car smoothness and flexibility.

It is interesting to note, the dealer said in speaking of the trucks to be seen in the caravan, that every part of the Chevrolet truck, although already oversize, has been strengthened and toughened to add years of life. Brakes are larger, the engine more powerful, and the frame stiffer. Even the load-capacity of the front springs has been increased from 750 to 950 pounds. Everything combines, he said, to make Chevrolet the world's favorite again in 1935.

A special program of educational entertainment and music, through sound motion pictures, will also be given tomorrow evening during the caravan's visit here.

EPIDEMIC OF PETTY THEFTS SWEEPS CITY

Local police officers were faced today with an epidemic of minor burglaries and petty thefts over the weekend, which resulted in the loss of four bicycles, a watch, articles of clothing and automobile radiator caps. Two malicious mischief reports were also being investigated by officers today.

William Fisher reported the theft of a $50 watch, taken from the Palace restaurant on East Fourth street.

Reports of bicycles stolen Saturday from near West Fourth and Birch street were made by Donald Maurer, 1927 West Seventeenth, Robert Wooster, 2005 West Seventeenth, and Eddie Holbert of 1314 West Fifth street.

Theft of a bicycle from inside a vacant house at 114 East Twelfth street which was entered with a pass-key was reported by E. B. Brand of Ontario.

Frank Anderson of 715 West Fourth street reported the theft of a rear mirror and fender guide from his car parked in rear of a vacant lot at 801 West Fourth street.

Harry Vaughn reported theft of two sets of clothes, two traveling bags, leather jacket, a pair of shoes, 5 shirts, and a smoking set from his room in the Parsons Apartments at 414 1/2 West Fourth street.

B. F. Smith of 719 West Pine reported theft of a radiator cap from his car in front of that address Sunday evening.

Dr. Kenneth Coulson reported damage to roof and plaster by boys at his new home, 2133 North Flower street, and H. F. Garland, plastering contractor at Spurgeon school, reported 8 square feet of plaster has been kicked out and several buckets caved in and thrown in the yard.

4-H TEAMS IN GAME

OLIVE, May 13.—The Olive Hill Billies 4-H club played its first baseball club of the season Saturday with the Westminster Bean Pickers on the Olive field. The visiting team was accompanied by its leader, J. Farnsworth. The game resulted in a victory for the Westminster team.

The Olive group is to attend the farm bureau picnic at Irvine park Saturday.

NIGHT LEAGUERS TAKE HEART AS SEASON ARRIVES

This is the night before the Big Push. Tomorrow night, the National League inaugurates its tenth annual championship season. The set-up is entirely different than in other years. Instead of the customary eight, nine and even ten starting clubs, a mere six will open the line.

These are Huntington Beach, Westminster, Santa Ana, Olive, Anaheim and Long Beach, and that is just about the order of their finish in 1934. Missing are Fullerton and Whittier, where interest in night ball seems lax.

At first the National League magnates were querulous of their lineup. They thought a six-team membership looked and sounded "push." But as the spring wore on the managers took heart and with the season here believe the game will be doing better box-office than at any time since '32.

Under the new arrangement there will be six clubs financially and morally able to finish as well as start the season, which in itself is an important item. The abbreviated schedule will react to the benefit of the strong clubs as they will be playing each other six times instead of four. More and better competition is in prospect.

The standout team, of course, is Huntington Beach. The Oilers have everything, are strictly the ones to beat. Huntington Beach won both halves of the split season a year ago with a club that was not as good as this one, save perhaps in reserve pitching. Manager Joe Rodgers, for instance, has two extra outfielders who would be first stringers with any other team in the league.

Westminster seems to have the best chance of all the rest. The baseball students will observe that Westminster has obtained Anaheim's old infield which a couple of years ago was voted the best in night ball. I mean Higgins, McNabb, Kohler and Haserot. The Aviators also have one of the finest pitchers in the league in Errington, will be adequately represented behind the bat when the Hapes brothers check in from Mississippi next month. The outfield should be helped by the addition of Ed Daley, former Santa Ana who was a flywheel by trade before the Stars pressed him into service as an emergency first baseman. Daley will start the season as a catcher.

Santa Ana improved rapidly through the last part of their spring training, brooks no disrespect from the two topnotchers top of a political hotbed.

NEAR FATAL INJURY FAILS TO AFFECT COMBS OF YANKS

CLEVELAND, May 13.—Earle Combs' complete comeback this spring is as pleasing and surprising to the scholarly Kentuckian as it is to the New York Yankees.

Even before Combs fractured his skull in running into the wall in St. Louis last July, the renowned outfielder hardly expected to be a regular this season.

When the accident that threatened his life, let alone his brilliant career, occurred, Combs was quite positive that he was finished as a front-line man.

"I realized that I was slowing up," says silvery-thatched Combs who celebrates his 34th birthday tomorrow. "I thought that maybe if one of the other boys slumped, or someone was hurt, or something, I would go in there. But no one was more surprised than myself when Joe McCarthy started me on opening day."

FANS APPLAUDED

Combs attributes his rather poor start at the plate this spring to the warm welcome given him upon his return. After all his 13 years of play, it caused him to be over-anxious.

"I don't like to say anything about it, after they've been so nice to me, but I believe I would have done better had they just sort of let me slip back quietly," explains Combs.

"Fearing them applaud when I came up just made my hair stand up. I could feel my cap move back. I knew that they wanted me to hit safely every time I came up, and, while that's what I'm always trying to do, I guess I tried too hard."

PLAYS DEEP

Now that the Yankees are in the west, where the left field walls are closer than they are in the eastern parks, Combs is following advice given him some years ago

CITY LEAGUERS OPEN SEASON

BILL HAWKINS LOOMS AS S. C. HURDLE CHAMP

Wilson Topples Hurdles, Loses 14.7 Race

"What Happened at Fresno," a story set to sad music, was recounted today by Santa Ana junior college's track team which returned from the West Coast Relays with only three points.

Unbeaten this year, Santa Ana's Bill Hawkins today loomed as a potential winner of the 120-yard high hurdles in the Southern California prep championship meet, to be held in the Los Angeles Coliseum Saturday.

The curly-haired Saint track captain and two other Santa Anans, Bob Reff and Bias Mercurio, along with Frank Ochoa of Anaheim and Jim Morris of Tustin, will be Orange county's only representatives in the C. I. F. finals. They qualified in a divisional meet at Long Beach last Saturday.

Cantering in five yards ahead of the field, looking back over his shoulder, Hawkins won the highs in 15.5 seconds. His principal competition at Los Angeles will come from Billy Sanger of Muir Tech, Pasadena, who ran 15.3 in another divisional meet. This was Sanger's best time of the season whereas Hawkins has done 15.2 once and 15.3 twice. Coach Bill Cook says Wilson would have run 14.6 if he hadn't encountered difficulties. Kenny Vandruff did 15 flat in the preliminaries but a poor start cost him any chance in the finals.

Santa Ana's mile relay team did not qualify and Vernon Koepsel did not get to the starting post in time to enter the jaysee "hundreds."

LUND, WEBB, BUNCE, GOODAHL WIN GOLF

Arnold Lund and Warren Webb of Santa Ana, Roger Bunce of Anaheim and M. Goodahl of San Diego today went into the semi-final round of the Willowick Golf club's spring handicap tournament.

Lund, athletic director at Frances M. Dill Junior high school, eliminated Dwight Ainsworth, last year's runner-up, in the quarter-finals yesterday. Coach Lund won on the eighteenth green. Ainsworth had to allow him ten strokes on the 18 holes. Lund next meets Goodahl who won from John Lutz at 11:16.

Hawkins also qualified in the lows although Joe Davis of Ingleside beat him by a foot in a driving finish. The time was 24.8.

Reff, the Saint who was third to Davis and Hawkins at Long Beach, may be outclassed at the Los Angeles meet.

Mercuro did 5:11 3/4 in the high jump. Ochoa of Anaheim ran second in the mile, five strides behind the winning 4:45. Tustin's Morris finished third in a 52.4 quarter-mile. Fred Titensor, a Saint eligible, did not compete in the 440 and Vaulter Lee Stafford went out at 11:16.

Santa Ana qualified four Class B stars: Herschel Whitney in the 1220, Cameron Gillis in the broad jump, Tom Matzen in the 220, Dwight Nott in the low hurdles. Whitney trailed Glendale's Miller three yards in a fast 3:52 race.

Newport Harbor showed a potential flight—Arnold Lund (defeated Dwight Ainsworth, one up) vs. M. Goodahl (John Lutz, default); Webb (def. D. F. Robertson, default) vs. Roger Bunce (d. Mason Youell, 3 and 2).

South Coast Group Protests Harbor Fish Canneries

COMMISSION'S ZONING PLAN GETS SUPPORT

LAGUNA BEACH. May 13.—Two resolutions, one endorsing the zoning plan for the south coast district as proposed by the Orange County Planning commission, and the other protesting the location of fish canneries and similar industries in the Orange county harbor district as being inconsistent with development of the harbor for pleasure craft, were adopted at the regular monthly dinner meeting of the South Coast Improvement association held Saturday night at Hotel Laguna.

Capt. George A. Portus, president of the association, presided over the meeting. Entertainment features of the evening included vocal selections by Buddy Forster, of San Juan Capistrano, who was accompanied on the piano by his wife.

The greater portion of a lengthy business meeting was devoted to the zoning problem now before the planning commission. The following resolution, submitted by Miss Julia Norton McCorkle, chairman of the zoning committee, was unanimously adopted:

"That the South Coast Improvement association strongly endorses the effects of the Orange County Planning commission to zone the south coast district in such a way as to preserve the scenic beauty of that region for the residents of Orange county and of the state of California now, and to safeguard the interests of posterity; and that the commission be urged to let consideration of these permanent values outweigh temporary and commercial interests of individuals."

In connection with a proposed zoning of the district, allowing four blocks on each side of the coast boulevard in the Three Arches to be used for business, it was decided to ask the commission that the proposed zoning ordinance be drafted so as to prohibit the establishment of auto camps, beer parlors, pool rooms and dance halls.

Had fish canneries and similar industries been featured in the picture presented by those urging the harbor bonds, voters in the south coast section might have felt differently on the advisability of adding this burden on the taxpayers, was the thought underlying the resolution protesting the establishment of fish canneries in the harbor district, and requesting that all sections of the county be represented on the county harbor commission.

Painters Drop Brushes As Wasps Attack

SAN JUAN CAPISTRANO. May 13.—Irate bees and wasps interrupted the march of progress here Saturday, when they routed workmen who were attempting to paint the building on the walls of which they had built their hives.

The Stoffel building, in which the Capistrano hotel is situated, was about to have its face lifted for the benefit of visitors to the San Diego fair, when workmen painted over the hives of the stinging insects. Their resentment was immediate, and steps for the treatment of wasp stings are being taken by most of the crew, while methods of painlessly removing the wasps and bees are being considered.

ASSOCIATED GETS 300 BARREL WELL

HUNTINGTON BEACH. May 13.—The Associated well on the pierce lease which recently caused interest as it was thought to have been planned as a deep test, has been put on production in the 4300 foot sand, the upper Ashton in that part of the field, it is said to have come in for an initial production of more than 300 barrels, under the pump. It is one of the good wells of the group of new wells which have recently been drilled or reconditioned in the old field.

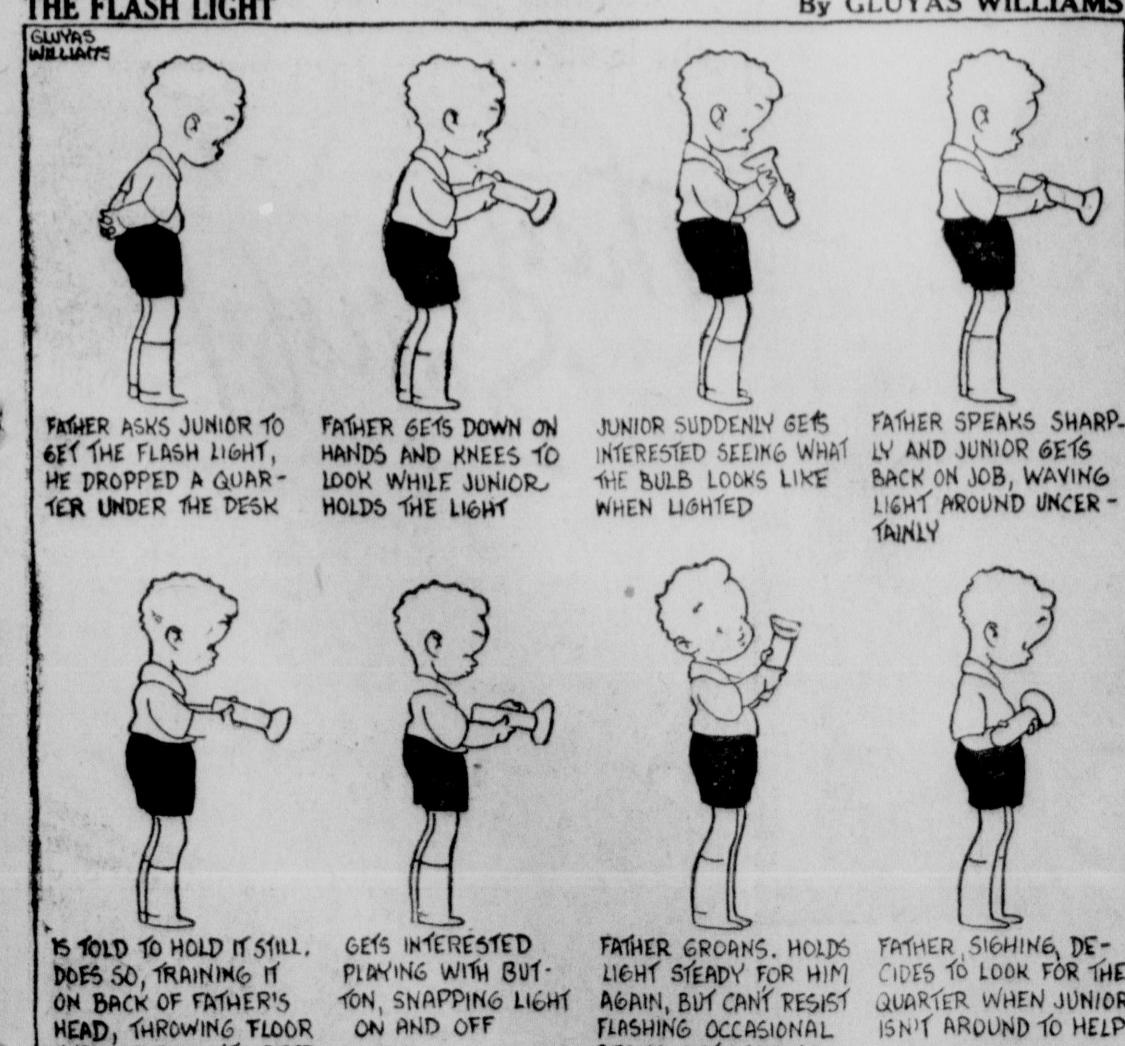

The Associated well was a new job drilled from grass roots. The Wilshire is drilling a well offsetting the Associated on the Reliance lease and about 400 feet from the Associated. Some half dozen new derricks dot the area of the old field north of Garfield street and west of Westminster street. Mrs. Hill, who had lived in Newport for the past 26 years, is survived by a brother, F. Peter Pierce, of Boston; a half-sister, Mrs. Carrie Handley, of Ohio; a step-daughter, Mrs. H. A. Ellis, of Michigan; a niece, Miss Lila Litch, of Glendale, and a cousin, Miss L. V. Curlett, of Alhambra.

HENRY GEORGE TO BE TOPIC AT FORUM MEET

The Santa Ana Valley Forum meeting at the Shell Club at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow will be addressed by the director, Dr. Frederick W. Roman, on "The Problems of the present Day World," covering the outstanding current happenings in the United States and throughout the world.

The second hour will be devoted to an address on the topic, "The Forerunners of Henry George."

Henry George was one of the most enlightened social and economic reformers of the last century," the announcement of the meeting said. "He was one of the most charming, challenging lights in the reform world of the last generation. He belongs in the class of the great moral leaders—Savonarola, Tolstoi, and Gandhi. His economic message rose to the heights of a religion; his life was rich and colorful. Men felt his presence as a touch from the original fountain of inspiration. He, himself, since his passing, has been regarded as an inspired prophet. Men and women who have any serious responsibility towards society cannot be put in the list of those who think they are posted, unless they have some real acquaintance with the thought and the philosophy of Henry George."

"On Tuesday night the predecessors of this economic philosopher will be discussed. The list will include Moses, Rousseau, Tom Paine, John Locke, Philip Spence and Patrick Dove.

"On the evening of May 21 the economic holdings of Henry George will be presented."

Both addresses are open to the public without admission charge.

LIFEBUOY lather is extra-cleansing.

If penetrates, purifies face and body pores. It keeps complexion fresh and glowing—stops "B.O." (body odor). And according to scientific skin tests Lifebuoy is more than 20% milder than many so-called "beauty soaps."

We grow accustomed to our personal, ever-present body odor. But ignorance of it won't excuse us! Play safe—bathe with Lifebuoy. It's fresh, clean scent quickly rinses away.

LIFEBUOY ENDS
"B.O."

"One may learn how to find joy and satisfaction in one's work—even if that work be unappreciated. I think we have a right to expect joy, happiness, in life. If that is to happen, most of us will find it through our daily work. The greatest joy is the joy of service and our job can be an instrument for the rendering of service. Jesus can teach one how to find joy in one's work in spite of the drudgery and unpleasantness that may be associated with it.

"One may learn how to relate one's job to that greater task of making a better life on earth. Jesus talked much about the Kingdom of God. By that He meant a life ruled by love, goodwill, brotherliness, justice. We are quite aware that we do not have that kind of a life. If we are ever to have it, it must come through the efforts of people who want it. Again, most of us must make our contribution through the regular job that is ours. How to do this one may learn by becoming a pupil of the great Teacher.

"One may learn how to find the

GRADUATING NURSES ATTEND BACCALAUREATE SERVICE; TO RECEIVE DIPLOMAS TUESDAY

Following the baccalaureate sermon delivered at the First Congregational church here last evening by the Rev. Perry Frederick Schrock, minister of the church, graduates of the Nurses' Training School of the Orange County hospital today were preparing for commencement exercises of the class, scheduled Tuesday evening.

Dr. Harry E. Zaiser, superintendent of the hospital, will preside over the commencement program and will present diplomas and pins to the graduating nurses. Dr. Claude Steen, of Fullerton, will deliver the commencement address. Invocation by the Rev. Robert Burns McAulay, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Orange, and a solo, "Without a Song," by Elbert Stewart, will precede the address.

The class will be presented by Grace Elizabeth Lansing, R.N., superintendent of nurses, and the Florence Nightingale pledge will be repeated.

The Anaheim High school string ensemble will play the processional and recessional marches. Among the musical numbers of the program will be a solo, "Giannina Mia," by Donald Cram.

The class motto is "The Key to Success is Constancy of Purpose." Class colors are yellow and orange, and the class flower is the Talisman rose.

"The Better Way" was the subject chosen by the Rev. Mr. Schrock for the baccalaureate sermon last evening. It was taken from the New Testament story of Martha and Mary, when Jesus was a guest in the home. Martha was worried about the meal to be served to the guest and Mary sat a pupil, at the feet of the great Teacher. The comment of Jesus was that "Mary hath chosen the right thing." Mr. Schrock said:

"There is something that we all need to learn and that is the art of living. We have our professions and businesses and trades. It is important that we be proficient in them. You young ladies are trained as nurses. Your training has made you efficient in that service. I am interested, tonight, in your proficiency in the art of living.

"Today we celebrate the anniversary of that 'Queen of Nurses,' Florence Nightingale. She was great as a nurse. She was greater in the art of living. I suppose every nurse thinks of her as her ideal in the profession of nurses. I wish that you would also make her your ideal in living.

"It is one thing to have an ideal and another to attempt to realize it for oneself. I want to recommend the example of Mary as a way to learn the art of living. Learn the art of living by sitting as a pupil at the feet of Jesus. By sitting at the feet of Jesus I mean something very tangible and simple. Make it a habit to study the life and principles of Jesus until they become a part of you. Permit me to suggest some things that may be learned by sitting at the feet of the great Teacher.

"One may learn how to find joy and satisfaction in one's work—even if that work be unappreciated. I think we have a right to expect joy, happiness, in life. If that is to happen, most of us will find it through our daily work. The greatest joy is the joy of service and our job can be an instrument for the rendering of service. Jesus can teach one how to find joy in one's work in spite of the drudgery and unpleasantness that may be associated with it.

"One may learn how to relate one's job to that greater task of making a better life on earth. Jesus talked much about the Kingdom of God. By that He meant a life ruled by love, goodwill, brotherliness, justice. We are quite aware that we do not have that kind of a life. If we are ever to have it, it must come through the efforts of people who want it. Again, most of us must make our contribution through the regular job that is ours. How to do this one may learn by becoming a pupil of the great Teacher.

"One may learn how to find the

HOLLYWOOD HAPPENINGS

By DAN THOMAS, Staff Correspondent

LA HABRA, May 13.—J. E. Tracy, La Habra grocer, will be sworn in as a councilman at the next regular meeting of the council May 21 to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Councilman H. S. Lytle. Lytle resigned this week. After moving to South Hillcrest avenue, which is just outside the corporate limits of the city.

City Clerk A. C. Earley states that at least four councilmen will have to be elected by the voters at the regular election next spring. This is caused by the fact that two automatically will be retired at the expiration of their elective terms and councilman Wilson was elected for a two year term to fill an unexpired term. Tracy will of course have to be elected by the people next spring to retain his place on the council. The retiring councilman, Lytle, was elected April, 1934, for a four-year term.

SECRET BETWEEN SHIRLEY AND HER MOTHER: In fact, the loss of the tooth itself is being shrouded with utmost secrecy.

YES, SHE HAS REACHED THAT AGE AT

SHIRLEY ALREADY HAS LOST HER FIRST
TOOTH—A FRONT ONE, TOO. THIS WAS DISCLOSED RECENTLY, WHILE SHE WAS

IN THE MIDDLE OF A SCENE, ITS LOSS
PROBABLY NEVER WOULD HAVE BEEN DISCOVERED.

THE DAY THE TOOTH DROPPED OUT

Shirley was rushed to a dentist who did an excellent job of filling the gap with a hollow cap which would permit the new tooth to grow right inside of it. Even the studio didn't know the difference.

Several days later the little star had a scene in which she was supposed to get very excited. She did. But right in the middle of it she stopped, turned almost green, and ran over to her mother.

The cap had come off! With one look, Mrs. Temple saw what had happened and became as excited as the child.

SEES Sad News

Just then the director called, "All right, Shirley, we're ready to shoot again."

"NOT GOING TO WORK ANY MORE TODAY," replied Shirley.

That brought the director over to find out what had happened. He saw—a gap right in the front of her mouth. However, there still was one scene in which Shirley could keep her mouth closed. So that was shot. Then she was rushed to the dentist's office.

In about three weeks, Shirley will start another picture, "Curly Top". Then she gets a three months' vacation, much of which she and her mother will spend in Honolulu.

By that time the new tooth certainly will be fully grown. But studio executives are plenty nervous just the same. Now that the first tooth has come out, there's no telling how soon the others will follow.

Register Readers To See "Gold Gulch" At San Diego

REGISTER WILL SEND READERS TO FAIR FREE

Perhaps it's because it's worth coming a long way to see that accounts for the tremendous number of visitors who come each day to visit "Gold Gulch," one of the number of concessions which readers of The Register who obtain four new subscriptions for the newspaper will enjoy when they spend the greatest vacation day of their lives without cost at the California-Pacific International exposition at San Diego on May 31.

However, be that as it may, the art direction of Harry Oliver, humorist, writer, and one of the world's outstanding motion picture art directors which such successes as "Viva Villa," "Seventh Heaven," "Sparks," "Little Annie Rooney," and "Tess of the Storm Country," as well as "Peck's Bad Boy," which was filmed largely in Santa Ana, practically assures every visitor to the exposition one of the greatest reproductions of the rip-roarin' mining camps since the days of Bret Harte and the Mother Lode country.

Interest Aroused

Circulation Manager R. M. Conklin, who is just about swamped with demands for more and more details on how Register readers can see the big exposition without charge, has arranged to include admission to "Gold Gulch" in addition to the other concessions and admissions which Register readers who obtain four new subscriptions for the newspaper will enjoy.

On May 31 the special Register train will leave here for the great exposition, carrying hundreds of persons who will enjoy a grand day at the exposition without a cent of cost. These persons will be those who have taken advantage of the opportunity offered to go on the special train, have their dinner and lunch bought for them, be transported to the exposition grounds, be admitted to the grounds and various concessions, and return home without the necessity for having spent a red cent. Circulation Manager Conklin today urged everyone interested to contact him at The Register office, Third and Sycamore streets, at once, to get an early opportunity to participate in the great day on May 31.

In Beautiful Spot

Chosen for its natural foliage, trees, stream and isolation, "Gold Gulch," is situated in a picturesque canyon in beautiful Balboa park. The "gulch" is based on all the romance and color of the Mark Twain, Bret Harte, Mother Lode country; rightfully bringing in the covered wagon, the western cattleman, the Indian and the early western pioneer, from an authentic historical and educational standpoint as well as a place for relaxation and clean wholesome fun.

From the entrance gate with its stage coach to the line of "Chic Sales" on the hill, Oliver's design, although not completed, has offered many laughs to the curious who flock daily to watch the progress of this unique production. The old Stamp Hall he made into a dance hall and filled up the other 20-odd acres allotted with color

Wallace T. Scott of 320 South Birch street, Santa Ana, is one of two Marine Corps Reserve airplane pilots facing military discipline for pilots whose licenses were suspended for 6 months as a result of night flying stunts in violation of regulations, according to findings of a board of naval officers at Long Beach Saturday.

Identity of the flyers, whose power dives over Santa Ana attracted the attention of many residents Tuesday night, and since that time alarmed the Toluca Lake motion picture colony, was established by Commandant Schneider of the U. S. Marine Corps Aviation Reserve at the Long Beach municipal airport upon whose orders the men were "grounded" for the 6-month period.

Scott and his companion, both lieutenants in the Marine Corps aviation reserve, were engaged in a two-weeks training course at Long Beach. Residents of the Toluca Lake colony, it was reported, were terrorized by the hazardous stunts of the flyers, as they engaged in power dives over the film colony and skimmed tree tops with their planes.

Commandant Schneider said the stunt flying, which was reported to have caused Ruby Keeler's mother to become speechless from fright and to have caused a baby to fall from its crib, were in direct violation of his personal orders.

Department of Commerce regulations prescribe that planes shall not fly less than 1500 feet from the earth over cities or colonies nor less than 500 feet over open country, unless within safe gliding distance of an airport, and this rule is said to have been violated in the power diving stunts over Santa Ana and the Toluca Lake colony.

The trip was then resumed to San Diego, and there the family talked it over, and reviewed the outstanding cities they had visited, Santa Ana topped the list, and the family returned here.

They were favorably impressed with the fine appearance of the city's streets, its schools, its churches, its public buildings and its homes. They liked the climate, an important factor from a health standpoint. They found the social, educational, and cultural life of the community all that they had judged from looking over The Register that they would be.

So the Van Leonard Brown family, like many others seeking the home of their dreams, were added to Orange county's population. Investments were made, the children started to school, and the family "settled down."

"Orange county is an ideal home community. We are satisfied, and never once have we regretted making our home here," Brown declared today.

Concerning "Stolen Harmony," Paramount picture starring George Raft, with Ben Bernie, Grace Bradley, Lloyd Nolan and William Cagney, the congress said: "Kidnapped on a cross-country tour, a popular dance band is rescued through the efforts of their saxophonist, an ex-convict. It is on the whole questionable. Adults: Matter of taste. 8-18."

Of "Reckless," M.G.M. picture starring Jean Harlow, William Powell and Franchot Tone, the report was: "A picture which is overloaded with plot, where serious vies with music and dancing, resulting in a tasteless sotocata. Continuous drinking distasteful. Adults: matter of taste. 14-18 and 8-14, no."

The third picture reviewed was "United Artists' Cardinal Richelieu," with George Arliss, Edward Arnold, Maureen O'Sullivan, Cesar Romero and D.umbrell. Of this picture the congress said: "Here we have history as it should be told, a glimpse into the sumptuous court of Louis XIII, where Richelieu and his passion for unifying France dominates the brilliant tangled skein of intrigue and romance. Arliss well befits the role of the wily churchman and he is surrounded only by the most talented of artists. Careful, thoughtful direction has been given this handsome production. A picture no family should miss. Family and junior matinees. Adults, exceptionally fine. 14-18 excellent. 8-14, mature."

Now, everyone knows that is a lot of money, nearly five billions of dollars.

But just how much it is, few can comprehend, for the sum is so vast.

Some bright mind figured it out, however, and divided the sum into 60 minutes per hour, 24 hours per day, 365 days per year, and 1935 years.

Janie Lowry and Hugh Neighbor of the city engineer's office tried the problem on the comptometer

"GOLD GULCH" AT EXPOSITION

Harry Oliver, noted motion picture art director who was the man who selected Santa Ana as the city in which to film the exterior scenes of "Peck's Bad Boy," which had its world premiere at the Broadway theater here, and Rob Wagner, editor of Hollywood's "Script," are shown below giving suggestions to Gyo Fujikawa, talented Japanese artist who has won a name for herself in designing the striking posters which will tell the world that Oliver's "Gold Gulch" at the San Diego Exposition opening May 29 is to be the "rip-roarin' mining camp since '49." Admission to this great concession is one of the many attractions to hundreds of persons who are planning to attend the exposition on May 31 as the guest of The Register who will enjoy a glorious day at the exposition simply by getting four of their friends to subscribe to the Santa Ana Register.

RECENT FILMS ARE REVIEWED BY CITY P.-T. A.

Criticism and comment on new pictures was released today by the California Congress of Parents and Teachers, through Mrs. M. W. Hollingsworth, chairman of the motion picture committee of the Santa Ana council of Parents and Teachers.

Prominent Couple Weds
At Methodist Chapel
Ceremony

Bridal traditions and sentiments added to the significance of the ceremony Saturday night, May 11, at which Miss Dorothy Dresser, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Dresser, 1522 French street, became the bride of Ralph J. Kolkhorst of Orange. First Methodist bride's chapel, lighted with many white tapers, was setting for the event.

In her costume the bride observed the tradition of "something borrowed, something new, something blue, and lucky sixpence in her shoe." The sixpence has accompanied many brides to the altar, the latest of these having been Mrs. Harold Fish (Ethel Ellis) and Mrs. Russell Sullivan (Charlotte Harrois). With her shimmering gown of all white satin, Miss Dresser wore a shoulder length veil belonging to Mrs. William Kirkhorst (Dorothy Lutz). This lacy veil had been loaned other brides including Mrs. Russell Sullivan and Mrs. Myron Duncan (Louise Bryant).

The Kolkhorst-Dresser ceremony taking place on the eve of Mother's Day, it seemed especially appropriate that the bride should carry a point lace handkerchief which had been her mother's as a bride 34 years ago. Miss Dresser's bouquet of white sweet peas was centered with gardenias which formed a corsage for her traveling costume later in the evening.

A. P. Dresser gave his daughter in marriage. She and the bridegroom took their places at the altar before the officiating minister, the Rev. F. C. Howlett of Imperial Methodist church, a close friend of the Kolkhorst family. Baskets of white blooms and greenery formed a background for the ceremony.

The bridegroom's niece, Miss Eleanor Kolkhorst, sang "Promise Me" and "I Love You Truly," accompanied by her mother, Mrs. C. Wesley Kolkhorst of Orange. The bride's sister-in-law, Mrs. Harold Dresser of Lynwood (formerly Miss Jean Ross of Santa Ana) was at the piano for a group of numbers including the wedding march.

The Dresser home was setting for a reception attended by relatives and close friends of the bridal couple. Pastel-hued snapdragons brightened the rooms. Mrs. Dresser wore a printed chiffon frock with a corsage cluster of pansies.

Ices in wedding bell design were served with wedding cake. The decorated confection was adorned with a miniature bride and bridegroom which has topped many bride's cakes since first used by Mrs. Willard Lutz (Frances Rohrs). Miss Helen Whitmore of Los Angeles, Mrs. John Lutz, Mrs. Myron Duncan, Mrs. William Kirkhorst of this city; the bridegroom's sister, Miss Elsie Kolkhorst of Orange, and Mrs. Clyde Martin (Margaret Hutchings) of Anaheim assisted in serving. Coffee was poured by Mrs. Clayton Hutchings of Anaheim and Mrs. Sue Bryant of this city.

Tables were prepared for the dessert course of date roll and coffee with pastel linens and centered with compotes of minted bonbons in colors to harmonize. Serving was accomplished by Las Meninas of Junior college, the Misses Jane Crawford, Rosalie Opha Coulson, Dorothy Dresser, Hazel Lee, Eunice Hoffman, Mary Berger, Irene Ross, Betty Burnham, Ruby Suman, Fae Parsons, Hattie Bell Wall, Katherine Spicer, Frances Roper, Betty Fogle and Mesdames Ronald Crookshank, Norman McClay, John Cross, Harold Fish, William Fletcher, Santa Ana; the Misses Mildred Loudon, Anaheim; Phyllis Follett, Mabel Wheatland, Whittier; Tracy Howard, Bellflower.

During this interval, guests had the pleasure of watching a spring fashion revue presented by Miss Martha Whitmore and Mrs. Rose Walker. Programs in the prevailing pastel tones were provided for this feature so that it was easy to follow the smart styles "por la sport," afternoon and evening wear for women and the play clothes, everyday wear and "party" clothes for children.

Mrs. Harry Kendall, Miss Joanne Thieme, Miss Martha Whitmore and Mrs. Harry F. Smith modeled the "fashions fitted to feminine fancy," while the children's wear was modeled by Stuart and Natalie Merrifield, Lola Marie Harmon and Verna Belle Smith.

In the games session which completed the afternoon, prizes were awarded. Miss Katherine Blank for scoring high in contract; Miss Mary Ford with a similar auction score; and Miss Betty Hoblit in anagrams. Lucky number prizes went to Mrs. Robert Mize and Miss Mary Henderson.

University Women taking prominent part with Mrs. Knipe in planning the event were Miss Hubertine Kueneman, publicity; Miss Lillian Dickson, tickets; Mrs. Miller Newcomer, reservations; Miss Anna Trythall, bridge; Miss Deborah Elliott, anagrams; Mrs. Hiram Currey, visitors; Miss Ruth Rowland, prizes; Miss Genevieve Humiston, refreshments; Mrs. Merritt White, decorations; Dr. Mabel Geddis, Miss Lavenia Scott, Mrs. DeWitt Dudley and Mrs. Clyde Cook, general arrangements.

The newly married couple left for a two weeks' trip north, the bride donning a suit of navy blue triple sheer crepe. On their return, they will live in Orange, where Mr. Kolkhorst is engaged in ranching. He attended U. S. C. following graduation from Orange Union High school. Mrs. Kolkhorst, who attended Santa Ana High school and Junior college, has been employed in the offices of the county recorder for the past five years. She is a past president of Wrycende Maegden club.

Calumit Auxiliary

Calumit Auxiliary U. S. W. V. Sewing circle spent Thursday at Trabuco canyon in the cabin of Mr. and Mrs. H. Moberly. Noon day luncheon was served at tables placed beneath the trees surrounding the summer home.

Cards and sewing interested the group during the afternoon.

On the committee were Mesdames Katherine Reagan, Rena Wheeler, Maude Brown, Bess McElroy, Jean Tantlinger, Addie McCorckock.

Present were Mesdames Bertha Dixon, Zeppha Pearson, Hazel Hall, Celia Cook, Gertrude L. Jackson, Margaret Meisinger, Luella Randal, Bertha Helmer, Matilda Moeser, Ann Springer, Edna L. Y. W. Summer Camp Registration Opens

Registration has opened for Orange County's two Y. M. C. A. camps, Torqua at Catalina Island and Osceola in the San Bernardino mountains, according to announcement made today by Miss Mary Porter, local Girl Reserve secretary.

The dates for the two camp sessions are: Torqua, June 15 to June 22; Osceola, August 17 to August 24. Both will be open to girls in the community between the ages of 10 and 18. Camps are under the supervision of Orange County Girl Reserves secretaries and staff including managers, trained nurses, cooks and selected group leaders.

Damascus White Shrine

During their meeting Friday night in Masonic temple, members of Damascus White Shrine received word that their worthy high priestess, Mrs. Sue Henry, had received the appointment of supreme flower girl at the Supreme Shrine convention which she is attending at Cleveland, Ohio.

In the absence of Mrs. Henry, the meeting was conducted by Noble Prophetess Eva Mae McConnell and Fred Pope.

Refreshments were served in the dining room under the supervision of Mrs. Marie Beisel. Adjourning to the lounge, cards were played, with prizes going to Mrs. Eva Mae McConnell and Fred Pope, who scored high and low.

Plans were made for complimenting Mrs. Henry at a special meeting to be held June 10.

EAT AND GROW SLIM

Breakfast

1-2 grapefruit, or
1 large dish of stewed rhubarb, sweetened with saccharin
1 soft-boiled egg
1 thin slice toasted wholewheat bread

1-2 pat butter (scant teaspoon)
1 cup coffee with
1-4 cup hot skimmed milk.
Calory total, 290.

The large dish of rhubarb calls for 1 cupful of stewed rhubarb.
Sweetened with saccharin its calory value is approximately 10-minus that of the grapefruit.

Don't eliminate all starches from your diet. Not only does one slice of toast satisfy the desire for crunchy flavor some food, but it has its definite place in the scheme of weight reduction.

Remember this: "Fats burn only in the flame of carbohydrates (starches)." That slice of toast lights the body fires of weight reduction just like a match and paper light a wood fire.

TODAY'S RECIPES

Peanut Butter Cookies

1-3 cup shortening

1-2 cup peanut butter

1 cup sugar

1-2 cups sifted all-purpose flour

1 level teaspoon soda

1 teaspoon vanilla

Salt, about 1 teaspoon unless butter is used for shortening.

Cream sugar and shortening, add the egg and beat well, then the creamed part, not forgetting the vanilla.

You may ice-box this recipe by adding to the ingredients (dry)

1-2 teaspoon double-action baking powder. Chill over night, slice and bake in medium oven next day.

Mrs. Weston is heard each Monday at the same hour.

For immediate baking, take up rounded teaspoonful of dough, roll into balls, place on oiled cooky pan and press flat with tines of a fork. Bake in moderate oven. Good keepers, yield about 3 dozen.

Approximate calory values of recipes are 2355, mainly energy-and-fat makers . . . definitely not for overweights!

Smothered Spring Chicken

3 broiling size chickens
Seasoned flour for dredging
1 small celery heart, diced
1 small handful parsley, minced
1 small handful chives, minced

3 tablespoons butter

3 cups milk mixed with

1-4 teaspoon soda while cold

Salt and pepper.

Chickens, selling at $3 for a dollar, will serve six. Split into halves, clean carefully and dip in seasoned flour. Arrange flat in closed, set in a baking pan, strew with minced chives, parsley and celery, dot with butter, and bake in a hot oven until the upper side of chickens have browned.

Then add the milk, reduce heat to very slow oven (250 degrees), cover, and make until tender (about 1 hour). Take up chickens, add milk or cream to make more gravy.

This method of cooking does not dry up these small broilers.

They are very tender and all together satisfactory.

The pirate squirmed upon the ground and, as the Tinies looked around, he shouted to the ink man, "They have played a trick on me."

"Perhaps they think it is a joke. I fell asleep. When I awoke, I found they'd bound me, hand and foot, as you can plainly see."

"Release me! Then I'll have my fun. I'll paddle each and every one. That ought to teach them not to pull off funny stunts. I guess."

"Why, I'd have let these Tinymites go 'round with me to see new sights, but now I've changed my mind, because they brought about this mess."

The ink man smiled and said, "Don't try to fool me. It just happens. I know all about what you have done. You sure deserve my punishment."

"You made the Tinies servants and you wouldn't even lend a hand with any of the work they did."

PASTOR NOTES MARY'S LOVE MOTHER MOTIF OF CHRIST IS IN RELIGIOUS SERMON TOPIC

"It is a partial and lop-sided religion that banishes the Goddess and the Priestess, and it usually does well to reintroduce the maternal element in its ritual and celebration," declared the Rev. Julia Budlong, director of the Free Church Fellowship, in opening her Mother's Day sermon at the Unitarian church yesterday.

"Yet, even in patriarchal protestantism the Mother motif has never been wholly absent," she continued. "We are taught to think of 'Holy Mother Church'; to seek for our perfect rest in God; to consider ourselves Pilgrims and strangers in the world, journeying toward another true home in Heaven. This is religion's way of ministering to that subconscious homesickness that runs through our whole adult lives."

"The process of growing-up has been a process of moving farther and farther away from those sheltering arms which gave us our first warmth, food, security. In fatigue, illness or sorrow, we find ourselves longing for childhood once more, and the shelter of our mother's arms. And this longing religion uses to invite to devotion and peace."

"A second need which religion seeks to supply is the longing for a perfect father-mother relationship. The pain of growing up is partly the pain of discovering that our parents are human. No one living can be as wise, as powerful as perfectly good as an infant assumes his parents to be. Sooner or later we discover the truth about them—that they are only human, after all, and the agony of longing and disillusion leads us to transfer our love and devotion to a perfect, ideal parent, imagined in the sky or under the earth, or in our own sinful hearts. To this parent we can turn in love and longing with perfect confidence that all prayers will be answered and every ill assuaged."

"There is a danger, however, in this tendency to turn child again in any personal emergency, and to identify religion with that mood of childishness.

"In the first place, our mothers, in giving us our first religious training, which is apt to be all the religious education most of us get, were giving us that training in a form that little children could grasp. It was made purposely childish and concrete and partial. Not only that, but the mother who gave the instruction was probably young and immature herself, and without the leisure and the experience required to arrive at a mature religious understanding. Consequently, to stick where our mothers left us, religiously, is often to stay childish and immature. Parents and children alike should seek to grow-up and to improve themselves, as in every other way."

"How, then, are we to resolve this inner conflict, by which, on the one side we seek for the safety, security, peace and comfort of a babe in our mothers arms, and, on the other, strive constantly to mature and progress?

"The way to be at home in the world is to make the world home-like. The way to find mother all about our lives is to imitate her in our conduct toward others. Let all men be our children, and let us all, men and women alike, express in our lives the wisdom, tolerance, understanding, love, service, devotion, we knew in our own mothers. This is to honor our

"The splendid work of Valentine and Beck in their respective fields has made this new change in management possible. Valentine will now supervise sales activities of the company in one of the eastern divisions, while Beck becomes city manager for Los Angeles.

"With sales of Dodge and Plymouth passenger cars and Dodge commercial cars and trucks constantly ahead toward what promises to be one of the greatest years business in the history of the company, our Southern California dealers are continuing to set the pace for the entire country."

"This deed was beautiful in its motive. Only love and gratitude led her there. She didn't pour $5 worth of perfume upon the head and feet of Jesus for the applause of the crowd, for she was criticized by many present."

"No deed is beautiful if born from a selfish motive. I heard of a kiss that a man gave Jesus sometime." With true regard, she wanted to lay her bit upon the altar of sacrificial love, and remember the man who had raised her brother to life; she could not serve as Martha, so she brought her gift of perfume. As the house was filled with the odor of the ointment in that far distant time, so the world has been filled with the fragrance of that deed unto this day: for it was rendered in the true spirit of loving service."

"We speak of mother love. Did you ever see a little boy or girl come running with a present for mother? Its value, as measured in dollars and cents, as Judas measured the act of Mary, would be worthless, but in the eyes of that mother and every true mother that gift would be precious because of the spirit that prompted it!

"The act of Mary was beautiful mother with the only form of flattery she really desires—the sincere flattery of imitation. This and every troubled man or woman is to make every day Mother's Day secure in the all-embracing arms of a universal Mother Love."

NEW MANAGER
Dan Beck, shown below, is the new city manager for Dodge Brothers Corporation in Los Angeles, according to word received by L. D. Coffing, local Dodge and Plymouth dealer.

Beck Selected Dodge Manager In Angel City

The appointment of Dan Beck to the post of Los Angeles city manager for Dodge Brothers Corporation is announced by C. S. Bash, Pacific coast regional manager for the company. That is the news received today by L. D. Coffing, Dodge and Plymouth dealer for Santa Ana.

Beck is considered an outstanding figure in the automotive industry, having established an enviable reputation in sales work. For the past four years, he has served as a representative of Dodge Brothers corporation in the middle-west territory. Previous to this period, he was engaged in the automobile business in New York, Denver and Honolulu.

"The leadership of Dodge Brothers in the industry is not entirely the result of building fine motor cars, but may be attributed to some extent to their recognition and promotion of the men within the organization who have been responsible for their success," said Mr. Bash.

"We next see Mary at the tragic scene which turned into joy—at the tomb of her brother, Lazarus. We see the sisters sending their simple appeal to the Master for help, 'Lord, he whom thou lovest is sick.' We see them waiting yet patiently, although that brother has been deceased four days, and then standing beside the open tomb and beholding that dead one come forth at the voice of the Son of God.

"In gratitude they made for Him a supper. This was just six days before that Last Supper and the agony that followed. During this friendly dinner, surrounded by friends and loved ones, Mary quietly slipped to the side of the Christ and, breaking the seal, anointed his head and feet with precious ointment ofnard. Judas criticized her, and the others protested what they considered wasted, but Jesus said, 'Let her alone, why trouble ye her? For she hath wrought a beautiful work on me—wherever this Gospel shall be preached throughout the whole world, this also that this woman hath done shall be spoken of as a memorial of her.'

"This deed was beautiful in its motive. Only love and gratitude led her there. She didn't pour $5 worth of perfume upon the head and feet of Jesus for the applause of the crowd, for she was criticized by many present."

WEALTH combined with genius to give Finland and the world one of its greatest authors and dramatists in the person of Aleksis Kivi. Born in poverty, a voracious reader and a prolific writer, Kivi, whose real name was Aleksis Stenvall, was taken under the wing of a rich patroness, who gave him a home and enabled him to work under favorable conditions.

Thus he brought out many great pieces of literature, of which his most famous is "Seven Brothers." But the life that came in sorrow went the same way, for in 1871 Kivi's mind gave way, and he died on the last day of 1872.

In 1931, Finland remembered its great writer with a stamp commemorating the 100th anniversary of Kivi's birth.

A picnic dinner was shared at one o'clock Sunday at Irvine park by the following relatives and friends: Mrs. Louis A. Riehl and children, Louis Jr. and Virginia; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Trickey, Mrs. Sarah May Matthews, Mrs. H. H. Hanniford and children, Betty Lou and Homer of Tustin; Mr. and Mrs. Mary Riehl and children, of Orange; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Jessup Jr. and Thomas Jessup Sr., of Garden Grove; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Mathews and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Perozzi and children, of Santa Ana.

CHURCH GROUP GIVES PAGEANT IN BEACH CITY

HUNTINGTON BEACH, May 13.—A pageant depicting famous men and their mothers was presented for the Mother's day program at the Christian church Sunday evening. The church was packed to capacity for the entertainment.

The prologue, directed by Mrs. Margaret Pryor, was as follows:

Two mothers of the present, Mrs. Geo. Kesterson and Mrs. Fred Rowley; Spirit of Motherhood, Mrs. James Pistole; mothers of the past, George Washington and his mother, James Dowdy and Mrs. Alf Dowdy; John Quincy Adams and his mother, Norman Worthy and Mrs. L. E. Worthy; Abraham Lincoln and mother, Elmer Benson and Mrs. E. Benson; James Garfield and mother, Victor Elliott and Mrs. P. W. Elliott; David Livingston and mother, David Kirkpatrick and Mrs. Fred Kirkpatrick; Charles Wesley and mother, Melvinne Coker and Mrs. Little Coker; The Gracchi and mother, Bruce and Roland Worthy and Mrs. C. E. Worthy; Moses and mother, Donald Mollica and Mrs. Angelo Mollica; Samuel and mother, Billy Helme and Mrs. Helme; Timothy, mother and grandmother, Jimmie Axton, Mrs. Joe Axton and John the disciple, and Mary, the mother of Jesus, Mrs. T. Rarden, J. Pistole and Mrs. William Hengold.

Others helping with the music and tableaux were Mrs. Gertrude Catching, Mrs. Mildred Murdy, Mrs. Pearl McClinton, Juanita Benson, Alf Dowdy, C. E. Worthy, Mrs. Edna Herron, Mrs. Anna Jacobs, Mrs. Alberta McMannis, Mrs. Curtis Achibald, Miss Ruth Rardin, Mrs. Leo Koppl, Miss Sylvia Coker, Jack Coker and Fred Rowley.

Beck is considered an outstanding figure in the automotive industry, having established an enviable reputation in sales work. For the past four years, he has served as a representative of Dodge Brothers corporation in the middle-west territory. Previous to this period, he was engaged in the automobile business in New York, Denver and Honolulu.

"The leadership of Dodge Brothers in the industry is not entirely the result of building fine motor cars, but may be attributed to some extent to their recognition and promotion of the men within the organization who have been responsible for their success," said Mr. Bash.

"We next see Mary at the tragic scene which turned into joy—at the tomb of her brother, Lazarus. We see the sisters sending their simple appeal to the Master for help, 'Lord, he whom thou lovest is sick.' We see them waiting yet patiently, although that brother has been deceased four days, and then standing beside the open tomb and beholding that dead one come forth at the voice of the Son of God.

"In gratitude they made for Him a supper. This was just six days before that Last Supper and the agony that followed. During this friendly dinner, surrounded by friends and loved ones, Mary quietly slipped to the side of the Christ and, breaking the seal, anointed his head and feet with precious ointment ofnard. Judas criticized her, and the others protested what they considered wasted, but Jesus said, 'Let her alone, why trouble ye her? For she hath wrought a beautiful work on me—wherever this Gospel shall be preached throughout the whole world, this also that this woman hath done shall be spoken of as a memorial of her.'

"This deed was beautiful in its motive. Only love and gratitude led her there. She didn't pour $5 worth of perfume upon the head and feet of Jesus for the applause of the crowd, for she was criticized by many present."

"No deed is beautiful if born from a selfish motive. I heard of a kiss that a man gave Jesus sometime." With true regard, she wanted to lay her bit upon the altar of sacrificial love, and remember the man who had raised her brother to life; she could not serve as Martha, so she brought her gift of perfume. As the house was filled with the odor of the ointment in that far distant time, so the world has been filled with the fragrance of that deed unto this day: for it was rendered in the true spirit of loving service."

"We speak of mother love. Did you ever see a little boy or girl come running with a present for mother? Its value, as measured in dollars and cents, as Judas measured the act of Mary, would be worthless, but in the eyes of that mother and every true mother that gift would be precious because of the spirit that prompted it!

"The act of Mary was beautiful mother with the only form of flattery she really desires—the sincere flattery of imitation. This and every troubled man or woman is to make every day Mother's Day secure in the all-embracing arms of a universal Mother Love."

TUSTIN, May 13.—A delightful picnic was enjoyed by members of the eighth one grade of Tustin grammar school Saturday at Corona Del Mar. Games and swimming were enjoyed and at noon a picnic luncheon was shared.

Mothers who assisted in arrangements for the event and accompanied the children to the beach were Mesdames Arthur Witten, William Kellams, Charles N. Archer, B. J. McReynolds, John Osterman and Louis A. Riehl. Miss Wilda Kellams was a special guest.

Members of the class invited to the merry picnic were Arthur Witten, Rebecca Archer, Dorothy Allyn, Edna Frances Johnson, Elizabeth Campbell, Margaret Coleman, Virginia Pafford, Beth Kellams, Anna Marie Grotz, Arthur Gorton, Johnnie Osterman, Ina Chadick, Betty Brooks, Conrad Wangler, Vivian Grislet, Louis Riehl Jr., Jack Becker, Emily Bouchard, Rene Lagier, Jeulah Osborne, Tomoko Kitasaki, Paul Kimball, Jimmie Fultz, Lenora Marchant, Cecil Maxson, Betty Timmons and Charles Christian.

Business improvement to the point that he has been required to add two salesmen to his staff to take care of inquiries and prospects was reported today by Joe Wilson, proprietor of Joe Wilson's Grunow Refrigerator shop at Third and Broadway.

The new members of the sales staff are Forrest C. Whitson, who had been a salesman here for the past 20 years, and Lawrence Pyle, former automobile salesman.

Wilson reports many sales of the new series Grunow refrigerators which use the harmless refrigerator carrene. Interesting demonstrations of instant freezing of water are made at the store using this refrigerator.

JOSEPH PILSUDSKI

The death of Marshal Joseph Pilsudski removes from the public arena an able, interesting and picturesque character, as far as Europe is concerned, and the leading factor in a united and powerful Poland in her relationship to both Russia and Germany.

Indeed his death may cause so much difficulty, in adjustment of the relationships, that it will cause one of the major difficult situations in determining the future.

It will tend to give each nation a little more hope that it can use Poland to its own ends. Pilsudski was one of those singular and unique characters endowed with nothing short of genius who breaks from his youthful environment, training and social relationships and almost streams across the sky of wrong and oppression as a brilliant meteor of rebellion and leadership, causing hope, unity and inspiration.

Born an aristocrat, in wealthy station, he saw the land of his sires confiscated by the ruthless hand of the Czar and this undoubtedly added, at least, to the intensity of his conviction and the strength of his determination. For alleged plotting against the life of the Czar, he was banished for five years to Siberia.

Later he was again imprisoned, charged with hostility to the government and finally he left his country as an exile. Living in Austrian territory at the outbreak of the war, he organized and was placed at the head of a regiment in the struggle against Russia.

With the cause of Poland at the very heart of his being, he planned for her independence, broke with Austria, retired from the army and came back only when Germany encouraged him with the program of an independent Poland.

The collapse of the Central Empire in 1918 gave him his chance and without the acceptance of public office he has been Poland's outstanding national hero and virtual dictator.

It was under the influence of Pilsudski that financial advisors from the United States were used; that money was borrowed on the basis of the tobacco monopoly, and other loans made by other guarantees. Their money was stabilized finally, after becoming almost worthless.

The government itself is in various industries and monopolies, so that it is a large employer of laborers.

The life of such a man is inexplicable. It can be explained only by the suggestion of the inscrutable ways of Providence. But even that is not sufficient, by any means, because so frequently it seems that the values of the activity of such characters are lost through the disintegration of the political and social order which they produce.

The state of flux in European political and economic conditions has brought some outstanding characters into the limelight, whose names will be written large on history's future pages. Such men as Lenin and Trotsky in Russia, Masaryk and Benes in Czechoslovakia, and by no means the least of any and all of them is Joseph Pilsudski of Poland.

A "MOUTHFUL" FROM QUILLEN

In the "Paragraphs" on our editorial page on last Friday, Robert Quillen writes: "You see we must be ready in case we can't keep out of the next war. If we weren't ready, we would have to keep out."

In the language of the small boy on the street, "Brother" Quillen, in that remark, "spoke a mouthful."

We are rather impressed that some of our noisy, war-preparedness gentry are afraid that Hitler has done more in two years of secret preparation than the former Kaiserdom failed to accomplish in forty years of open drill; namely to make itself invincible.

Germany's various new armaments are not only masterpieces of secret preparation but technical masterpieces in themselves. Her planes are faster than anything her potential rivals can show. Her army is the best in Europe. Her new cannon can bombard Paris from a distance of 100 miles. Her new submarines make use of new fuels and formulas that greatly increase their cruising radius. Some of the more excited dispatches come very close to saying that German planes fly without fuel, German cannon shoot without powder. German tanks walk up the side of the Empire State building.

German resourcefulness is one thing and Hitler miracles are another. It seems a bit unlikely that Hitler will be written large on history's future pages. Such men as Lenin and Trotsky in Russia, Masaryk and Benes in Czechoslovakia, and by no means the least of any and all of them is Joseph Pilsudski of Poland.

The coming fiscal year will see some extraordinary expenditures which, in spite of any conceivable gain in revenues, will put the deficit in June, 1936, at a record-breaking sum. The people who, in their government, are akin to stockholders of a company are given material for thoughtful consideration. How large may a national debt grow? What is its limit, and what sort of taxation must be expected before there can be a balance in a year's business and the debt reduced?

The condition of the Federal Treasury is not to be described as critical at this time. But that does not mean there is no necessity for serious thought and planning for the future.

It isn't very reassuring, with the exposure by the Nye committee of all the damning things that the "merchants of death" have done, to see congress, in the very face of it, appropriate almost unbelievable sums for our navy and army.

Why they can't even "play" at war out here in the Pacific without killing several and seriously injuring more. But "what difference does it make, it is all in a day's work, what's a death or two?" Everybody has to die sometime.

"Speeding it up is a little matter and the life of an individual, unless it be yourself, isn't important." And there are a great many people who do not think it is important, like the reporter who wrote about the attempted burglary which the householder stopped, when he said "he didn't lose anything but his life."

THE BONUS ISSUE AND WAR PROFITS

President Roosevelt is certainly in for a difficult hour. Undoubtedly public sentiment is changed, or certainly is in the process of change, on the bonus legislation.

The statement of Jesse Jones, at the head of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, that he believed the enactment of the Patman bill would not do serious injury and would be valuable in getting the question out of politics, does not tend to make the President any more certain of himself in his veto.

If Jones is right, then the President is wrong. Of course, there are those who contend that the enactment of the Patman bill into law will not take the question out of politics. It probably will not.

It isn't the bonus question that is in politics at all, it is an organization of the ex-service men, the American Legion, united in the interest of its members.

These men feel that they did not get a square deal in income during the war days; that they did not have a chance as the other men who stayed at home and made money did have, and they want to have a fair compensation for that other discrimination.

The bonus money is not likely to make the members of the Legion feel that this has squared the ex-service men financially.

The same forces that are obtaining the bonus can obtain a pension for the ex-service men. It was understood, of course, at the beginning, that the insurance and this bonus should take the place of a pension.

But no man or men today can bind the people of the future in what they will do. There is one thing in which this whole agitation and organization work is helping. It is going to make war exceedingly unpopular in the very groups which have heretofore been profiting by the war.

Anything that makes war distasteful and obnoxious to folks helps eliminate it. There are thousands of men, undoubtedly, who have profited by the war and who might consider that they would profit by another one, who are exceedingly unhappy in the thought that it doesn't help them very much to make a profit out of war and then have to pay it in a bonus or in pensions.

Right you are, gentlemen! What is the matter with quitting the whole war business?

OPPOSITION

Desperate and heart-sick mothers, goaded into action by the effects of liquor on their sons, are swinging into militant action against the places where it is sold, according to recent news dispatches.

Not long ago there was the report of a woman who "cleaned out" a liquor establishment, and again today the wires carry the story of a 60-year-old, 100-pound mother in Medicine Lodge, Kansas, who, accompanied by her daughter-in-law, celebrated Mother's Day by using a hammer in smashing every bottle and bit of glassware in a certain "cafe."

The raid was carried out in an effort to stop her sons from drinking, and as she completed her smashing attack she told the proprietor: "Well! That's that! Don't you ever let my boys in your place again."

Medicine Lodge is the town where Carrie Nation opened her saloon-smashing campaign with a hatchet. The tradition is being carried on though the instrument changes.

Too Many Wonders?

New York Times

Count that day lost whose low descending sun does not see the British Empire reeling under some new surprise from Hitler. It is only a matter of months since Stanley Baldwin sounded the alarm about German war planes. It is only a matter of weeks since Hitler brought out his new army. Day before yesterday came the new U-boats building in secret shipyards. Yesterday brought an impregnable naval base on the island of Sylt, described as a second Helgoland.

Germany's various new armaments are not only masterpieces of secret preparation but technical masterpieces in themselves. Her planes are faster than anything her potential rivals can show. Her army is the best in Europe. Her new cannon can bombard Paris from a distance of 100 miles. Her new submarines make use of new fuels and formulas that greatly increase their cruising radius. Such men as Lenin and Trotsky in Russia, Masaryk and Benes in Czechoslovakia, and by no means the least of any and all of them is Joseph Pilsudski of Poland.

Federal Deficit

Oakland Tribune

Looking in his books for the first ten months of the fiscal year the Secretary of the Treasury discovers a deficit of $2,768,000,000.

There are two ways to look at this huge figure. One is to remark with show of gratification that by the end of the fiscal year the total probably will not reach the President's estimate of $4,869,000,000.

Another is to regard the books as any industry would its own and observe that despite some unexpectedly large increases in revenues, the figures are still decidedly in the red.

The coming fiscal year will see some extraordinary expenditures which, in spite of any conceivable gain in revenues, will put the deficit in June, 1936, at a record-breaking sum.

The people who, in their government, are akin to stockholders of a company are given material for thoughtful consideration. How large may a national debt grow? What is its limit, and what sort of taxation must be expected before there can be a balance in a year's business and the debt reduced?

The condition of the Federal Treasury is not to be described as critical at this time. But that does not mean there is no necessity for serious thought and planning for the future.

Equal Rights for Women Make Strides in Turkey

San Bernardino Sun

A woman's suffrage congress in Turkey! Surely the world is not what it used to be. It was only yesterday that all Europe reviled the Turkish government, "sick man of Europe" whom Gladstone would have put out "bag and baggage." At no point did there seem to be a common meeting ground for the Turk and the European women.

Yet last week some 300 women, delegates and visitors from 35 countries were assembled in Istanbul, Turkey's capital, for the twelfth congress of the International Woman Suffrage Alliance as a tribute to the evolution of the Turkish woman in the last decade and a half—evolution from the harem to an unveiled place in the world. The World War has something on its credit side. In time, of course, woman's place in Turkey would have undergone change. But because the war turned Europe upside down the Turkish women have attained in half a generation what otherwise would probably not have been theirs in several generations.

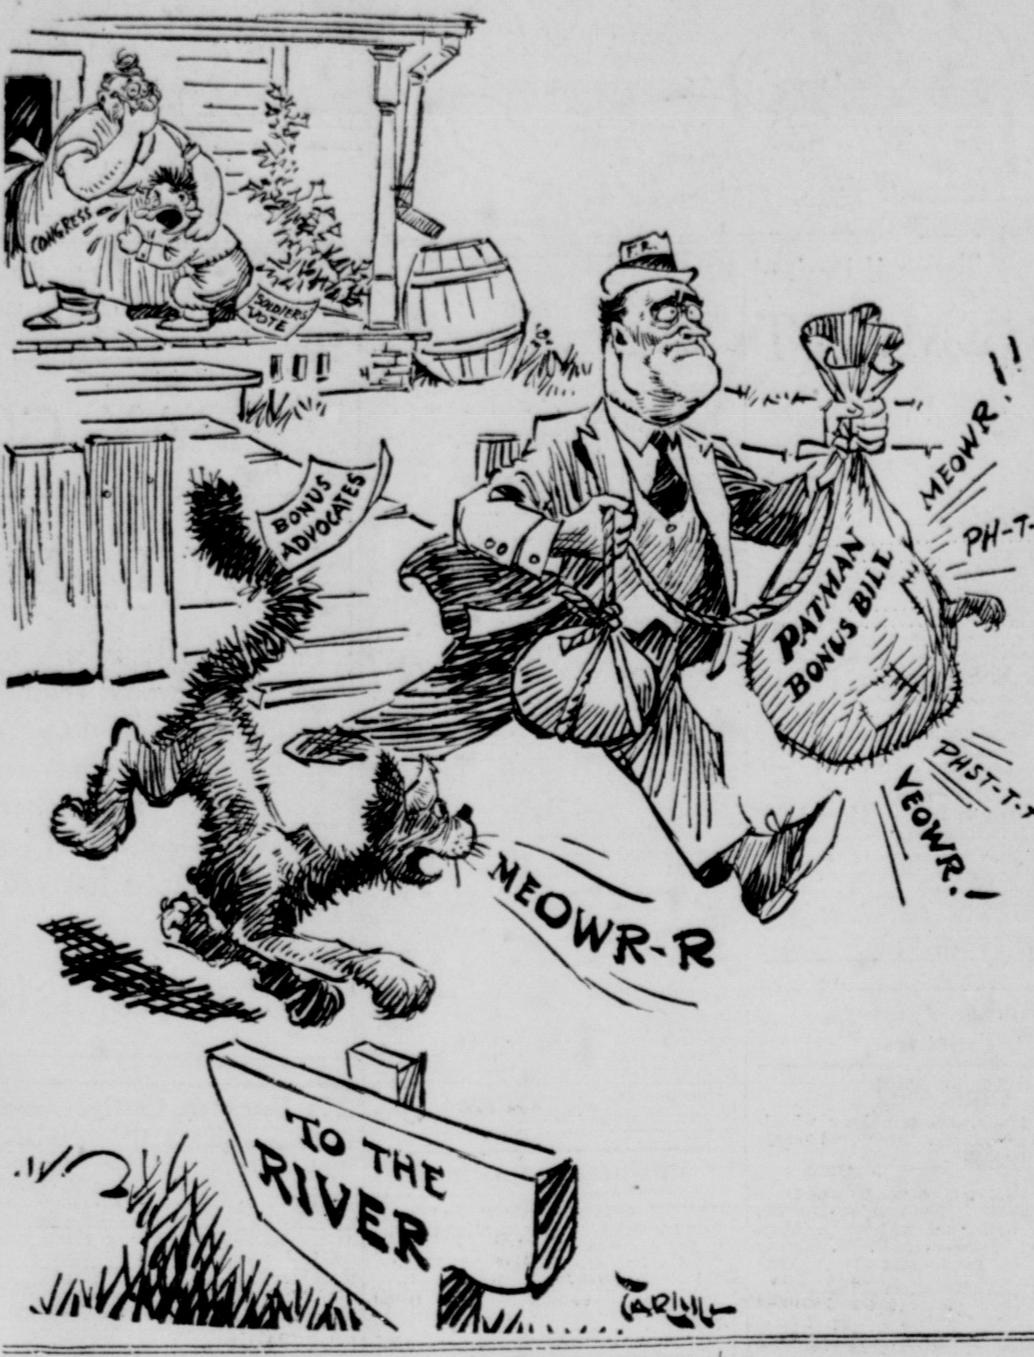

At the recent Turkish election, 17 women were elected to the grand national assembly.

Thoughts On Modern Life

BY GLENN FRANK

ANOTHER LOOK AT THE PLANNERS

The other day a queer political mountebank for whom I have been a pet target for years asserted that I had in mind an outlook and in my output as an observer of public affairs run the gamut from radicalism to liberalism to conservatism.

This interested me in view of the fact that I have, as readers of these articles know, consistently refused to be corralled in any one of these three stockades—radical, liberal or conservative. From my first years as an adult participant in the life of my time I have sought to be a realist following truth into any camp on any specific issue.

I find, for instance, that at the very outset of the depression I was saying the same sort of thing about the planning that has since become a slogan of the New Deal that I have been saying lately.

I said then as I say now that as the social and economic life of a nation moves from simplicity to complexity, as the scale of its enterprise expands, and as the pace of its life quickens, it must increasingly substitute design for drift.

Some measure of conscious planning must take the place of catch-as-catch-can improvising.

But, as I insisted some years ago, a people must approach this business of planning with its eyes open to the fact that there is peril in planning.

The peril lies in the tendency of a planned economy, once its initial patterns are drawn, to let well enough alone and thus to dampen the initiative and inventiveness of its people.

We can manacle our creative energies in the very attempt to master them.

There are two principles that are vital to a productive civilization, viz.: (1) large personal liberty of action, and (2) the ceaseless encouragement of invention and progress in the ways and means of working and living.

All planning must be tested by these two standards.

Our Children

By Angelo Patri

CREATIVE POWER

We give children lessons in various branches of human experience—reading and writing and number, art and craft, science, religion, the high points of accomplishment of past generations. We teach these tiny bits of knowledge in the hope that they will take hold in the child's mind and fire him to doing noble deeds on his own account. If he is not driven to activity by a wakened inner force, our teaching has not done much beyond informing him of a few facts of history. We have failed.

The aim of all good teachers is to awaken this inner force in each pupil. The facts of a lesson are not as important to the child, or to the teacher's point of view, as the effect they have on the pupil. If set rigidly in his bench, his face set, his eyes dull, no enthusiasm of spirit evident, he is not getting what school and society sent him to school to get—creative imagination and creative power.

I am not talking about genius. I have the ordinary workaday boy and girl in mind, those that compose the great mass of the children in our schools. Every one of them has the spark of creative power in him and it must be touched and driven to act on his mind and behavior before we can say that the child is learning. How can this be done in big classes and crowded programs?

In my experience it is not so much what is done in the classroom—although that is highly important in many ways—as it is how the teacher and pupil look at what is done. The aim of the teacher has in mind, its effect on the individual child, is the germ of the matter. When the composition is to be written does the teacher want a perfect production to file for the supervisor or does she want each child to set down on paper some idea that sprouted in his mind? Does the teacher want the mechanics of the exercise or does she want the creative power of the child to function?

Pop was smoking and thinking and ma said, How about taking in a movie, Willyum? I can sleep more inexpensively rite here in my chair, pop said, and ma said, Now Willyum why don't you wait till your chickins are hatched before you take the bull by the horns, I mean how do you know you're going to sleep?

Well, maybe if there's a good mystery picture in town, pop said, and ma said, It's a very simple matter to look and see, nothing ventured nothing lost.

And she opened the paper to the movie adds, saying, Here we are, the very first iron out of the fire, Merder in a Taxi, at the Narcissus.

By golly, I bleeeve I had a brilliant ideer, that sounds good, pop said, and ma said, And here it is, the Mawsmoth, with Merder at the Cross Roads.

I think I prefer a taxi, it sounds more comfortable, somehow, and less drafty, pop said, and ma said, I wonder what's at the New Miracle, here it is, Merder in the Kitchen, well of all things.

That sounds homey and cosy, pop said, and ma said, O, here's real news, Harts Are Trumps at the Mammoth, with Lovey Darling, Ronnel Ronnell and Fergy Feezeel that awful funny man, why do they have to put him in? It's the last nite for it, Willyum, we must go, she said.

And how about my murder? pop said, and ma said, Now Willyum I just told you this is the last nite for Harts Are Trumps, and those merders go on forever.

But tonite has an end, and no mystery in site, pop said. Something seems to of gone wrong somewhere. Well, you will promis to wake me up every time Fergy Feezeel comes on? he said, and ma said, O, all rite, I'll give you one poke with my elbow.

It's a deep, pop said, and they got ready and went.

Proving taists are diffrent.

A tasty drink of Jamaica rum and water was served by Admiral Vernon on a British frigate in 1770; the guests were so pleased with the drink that they named it after the admiral's program uniform, and hence was born "grog."

The pre-prohibition New Orleans Ramon gin fizz was distinguished by its orange flower water.

The California legislature authorized issuance of special unemployment relief plates free to workers unemployed who cannot afford automobile licenses.

A modern well-bred American sheep grows enough wool every year to make one man's suit of clothes; the average wool clip is almost eight pounds per sheep.

The prairies of our midwestern states have large reefs formed by sponges, proving that the land was originally covered by a great sea millions of years ago.
